THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT (SHRIMATI D. Suitablity of college graduates for employment

2846. SHRI N.R. GOVINDARAJAR: Will the Minister of HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT be pleased to state:

(a) whether it is a fact that only 10 to 25 per cent of college graduates are suitable for employment and 9 per cent of graduates of the country are unfit for employment, as per survey conducted by the World Bank;

(b) if so, the details thereof;

(c) whether the present higher education system is merely increasing the number of degree holders and not professionals;

(d) if so, whether Government proposes to check out any action plan to make higher education employment oriented; and

(e) if so, the details thereof?

THE MINISTER OF STATE IN THE MINISTRY OF HUMAN RESOURCE DEVELOPMENT (SHRIMATI D. PURANDESWARI): (a) to (e) Government's attention has been drawn to a study by a non-official Consultancy Organization, which has been quoted by a publication of the World Bank on "Strengthening Skills and Education for Innovation". According to the study, only 10-25 per cent of "general college graduates in India are suitable for employment". The reason given by the study is that links with industry are low in most educational institutions, leading to curricula that allegedly do not reflect modern technological development or include industrial practices. However, such a conclusion cannot be used for generalizing preference for professional education over general higher education, because both general Higher Education and professional Education are significant contributors to the development of human resource for any society. Relevance of Higher Education is a continuous process. The expansion of Higher Education approved by the National Development Council (NDC) under the Eleventh Plan through substantial increase in allocation and setting up of new IITs, IIMs, Central Universities and other institutions illustrates a balanced growth of Higher Education. The University Grants Commission (UGC) has redesigned its Vocational Education Programme since 2003-04 and the new Career Orientation Programme of the UGC, supplements relevant knowledge, skills and aptitude for gainful employment and self-employment to students pursuing the conventional undergraduate degree curriculum.
